Completing his ninth year as principal at HCHS, Myron Clark enjoys the guidance aspect of his job in which he works with students who are interested, capable, and willing. The students regard Mr. Clark as a ready and willing source of comfort, advice, and fairplay.

Possessing ultimate authority in our school system are Board of Education members—President Joe M. Bonham, Treasurer C. Keith Wentz, and secretary H. Dwight Thornburg. They have carried on the building program and this year completed the new Parkside cafeteria which will accomodate 300 high school and grade school students.

Math classes master

Mathematics is a key to the world of tomorrow. With each Russian scientific advance, comes an increased stress on math and science training in the school. The ability to reason and use logic, taught by its study, is as important as the actual knowledge and skill. This aptitude will be more significant in the future of the student.

The courses offered vary from junior high, teaching fundamental principals, under Mr. Harlan Kerlin, Mr. Ray Saxman, and Mr. Floyd Warner; and general math and beginning algebra, under Mr. Frank Teats and Mr. Dave Dick; to more advanced problems of second year algebra, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry with Mr. Kenneth Allee. These subjects range from the everyday problems of just living within the budget to discussions of the theoretical fourth dimension.

The mythical three R's omit one of the most necessary branches of secondary education, social studies. Each student, by the time he graduates should have a full background in World, U.S., and Indiana history, as well as sociology, economics, and civics. Field trips, special reports, movies, and study sheets are employed by almost all their instructors to heighten the students interest.

This year, Mrs. Martzell took her Indiana History class on an excursion up the Mississinewa River. They followed the Francis Slocum trail and visited the last Indian Reservation in Indiana. Mr. Lurety's senior classes spent a day in Indianapolis observing the State General Assembly in session. Mrs. Lindsey makes one written outside reading report per semester a requirement of her history courses. Mr. Warner, who calls himself an "old-fashioned" teacher, prefers oral reports.

Reading, it has long been said, is the door to new and fascinating worlds. But think of reading the lives and times of people who lived over 2000 years ago, written by a man who actually lived then, and in the exact words that he wrote. That is the opportunity afforded second year Latin students by their instructor, Mrs. Margaret Hole, when she helps the class in the translation of Caesar's Gallic Wars. First year Latin students begin by learning cases, conjunctions, forms, and translating short passages.

The road to success is seldom paved smoothly. The student learning to walk this road will stumble often. One of the first obstacles encountered is the attainment of a command of the English language. The student discovers that without this command he cannot communicate clearly. He seeks and finds assistance from his teachers.

Beginning in Jr. High, with the help of Mrs. Ruth Henderson and Miss Mabel Fee, students learn the basics of their language. Senior high brings these students in touch with Mrs. Esther Daniels and Miss Clift, who advance their students in the fundamentals of English.

Students take timed

Today, in this busy world of commerce, students' heads are turning more to business than ever. This is exemplified by a larger participation in the commercial courses. Students are learning dexterity in thought and action by the primary typing and shorthand courses taught by Miss Charlotte Miller. She states, "A typewriter is a common piece of equipment in the home today. Obviously, one should learn to type for personal use."

However, most students take the beginning courses for future work in the business world. The fundamentals of shorthand also taught by Miss Miller are helpful for taking down notes in college. For those who plan to go into secretarial work, Mrs. Marion Williamson polishes and speeds these skills.

Mrs. Williamson's classes have the benefit of new office practice books which are the material for discussion every other day. In the past the class had very little class discussion as dictation was given the whole period. In the second six weeks, the alternate days are used for a study of filing which is of great importance in the office routine.

The purpose of advanced shorthand and office practice is to prepare the student who plans to work in business for office problems.

Mrs. Williamson speeds up writing procedures with shorthand exams.

The class planned to visit a few offices and have one or more personnel managers to talk to the girls.

Mr. Thomas Hale, instructor of bookkeeping and business arithmetic, says, "Bookkeeping provides useful information for anyone. Budgeting, tax information, and family record keeping are all discussed and presented thoroughly in this course. Regardless of what a person does for a living, he can use his knowledge of bookkeeping in his personal, social, and business life."

Business arithmetic gives a commercial student valuable experience and information on problems relating to business subjects such as bookkeeping, clerical work, and business management. It also gives a good background for consumer problems—problems that confront us everyday as home-owners, customers, renters, and automobile owners.

All of these courses combine to prepare a student to attain his goal in the world of commerce..

Beginning with the Bluffton Street Fair, Hartford City's Marching Band received its initial first place rating of the season. From then on there was no stopping it. They easily swept first prize in their other contests, climaxing the season by taking first place in the state marching contest in Columbia City.

The Marching Band presented several half-time programs during football season, ranging from the "Career of a High School Band Student" to "There's No Business Like Band Business". Mr. Fread spent quite a bit of time coaching his band on precision drill, which was often included in their shows. Leading the band onto the field were the majorettes and Paul Everhart, who took a coveted first place in the state drum-major contest.

Between marching and contest season, the band sponsored their annual Band Tag Day. Here too, they had their most successful season on record. They grossed a record breaking $1400.

During Contest Season the band combined with Mixed Chorus to present their winter concert. The two hour program included everything from Richard Rogers' "March of the Siamese Children" to "Repartee" by David Bennet.

In late April, the Concert Band went to South Bend for their contest. There Mr. Fread's students completed a perfect season by copping another first prize.

Both these numbers were then played before a capacity audience at the Winter Concert in January. Each year the band collaborates with the Mixed Chorus to present the annual Winter Concert, and, for the first time, to climax the concert, the band not only accompanied the chorus instrumentally but joined them in singing the impressive "Testament of Nations".

Mixed Chorus entertains civic organizations

Each day, 5th hour, sounds of music drifted from the second story of HCHS. The source of this sound was the Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Miss Esther Nesbit. Monday through Friday the chorus runs through their daily routine of scales and old favorites.

At least one day is set aside for sight-singing to prepare for state contest, which this year was held in Greentown.

A new barbershop quartet was formed, adding a bit of close harmony and bounce to Mixed Chorus Programs.

Civic organizations often call on Miss Nesbit and her group to entertain at their affairs.

To raise necessary funds the chorus sold candy, packaged as well as in the old fashioned candy sale, and also presented a record hop in the school gym. The highlight of the hop was the presence of the "Wanders", a band made up of school musicians.

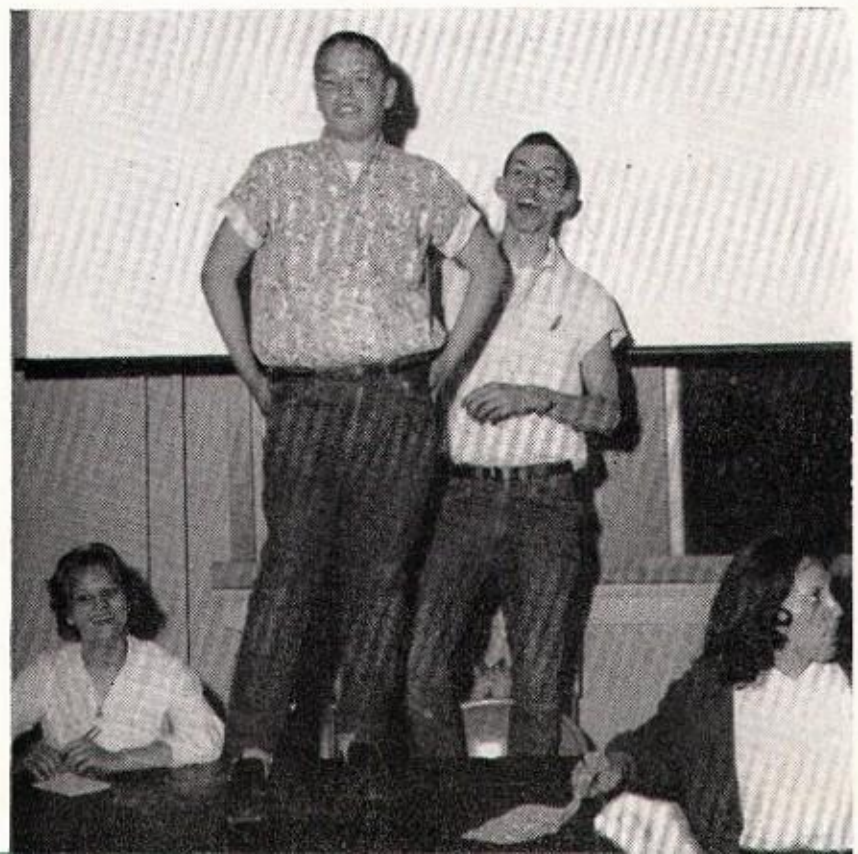
Latin Club holds Record hop, Roman Banquet

Members of the Latin Club will climax their year of activities by holding their annual Roman Banquet. Members raised money for this gala affair from candy sales and, for the first time, a sock-hop held in the school gymnasium.

The highlight of the club's meetings was the visit of Mr. Magoon, head of the language department at Ball State. Mr. Magoon spoke to the interested members about the Latin Language as it is learned today.

"Fifteen cents! What else am I bid for this young man at the Latin Club slave auction?"



Connie Heavenridge points out a new idea to Mrs. Hole and fellow Latin Club officers Charlie Miller, John Adams, and Judy Campbell.

French Club earns money to buy tape recorder

Ever played Bingo in French? Or attended a "soiree"?

To French Club members, this is "everyday stuff". Most meetings are held during the French class because only one class, first or second year, is offered each year. Once a semester, this organization holds a "soiree", or party complete with banquet, and entertainment.

The students choose a topic, then center the meeting around the theme with reports and games pertaining to it. Many of the members write to pen-pals in France to exchange gifts and pictures, and perfect their French.

This year's project is to build up a fund to enable the club to buy a tape recorder for the French department within several years. By the same process, last year's club earned the money and purchased a record player. Now it is often used by the students to play French records.

Under the direction of teacher and sponsor, Miss Mabel Fee, the group made Christmas for young boy a happier yuletide.

With this well-rounded program, Miss Fee believes that "French Club is both educational and fun for the students."

All girl cast presents Dramatics Club mystery

In October, the 1958-59 Dramatics Club opened its season with the production "Nine Girls." This play, as all Hartford High plays, had a preparation period of six weeks. During this time, rehearsals were held four evenings a week, while every Saturday morning faithful club members arrived at the William Reed school to prepare the stage. Raising flats, lowering flats, painting, hammering, sawing, were all in a day's work.

This year, for the first time, the club sold season tickets, in collaboration with the junior and senior classes. These tickets covered the two class plays as well as "Nine Girls." Also this year the club had a one-act playlet, "Box and Cox", in reserve should any civic organization wish a presentation.

Drawing from its treasury, the club purchased new spotlights for the stage and installed them in time for the Senior Class Play, "Jenny Kissed Me".

Large crowd enjoys Student Council Sock-hop

Democracy is a familar and respected word to every young American and should be if he is to become a good citizen. In Hartford High School, democracy works through the Student Council. From it, the students learn about the workings and the rights of representative government. The Council is responsible, besides the actual government, for varied activities and projects during the year.

The council sponsored a Bundle Drive, collecting clothing for the underprivileged and the School Chest Fund, which raised money to be divided among the various charity organizations. Open House, held for the parents, and Fun Night were under the sponsorship of the group. Two sock hops for H.C.H.S. students were held by the organization—an "Autumn Swing" and a "Sadie Hawkins" dance. Other projects included: decorating the halls for the sectional, planning the four annual school convocations, and taking charge of the Christmas program.

Council representatives are elected individually by their own activity and try to present their group's opinions and wishes to the others. The Student Council works in co-operation with the administration and their sponsor is Mrs. Margaret Weigand.

Hi-Y, Y-Teens hold

In a very impressive and reverent ceremony, H.C.H.S. boys were formally initiated into the Hi-Y. This was the beginning of a very enjoyable, interesting, and educational year for Hi-Y-ers.

Swimming parties and athletic nights consisting of volleyball, basketball, and other such sports were found to be a pleasant means of entertainment for the boys. They saw two films during the year and were enlightened concerning our European neighbors by Mr. James Lurtey, who also showed slides he had taken last year.

Hi-Y jackets have also been purchased by a few of the senior boys. The jackets are the Hi-Y colors of blue and white, and are adorned with the Hi-Y crest.

Science Club watches hypnosis demonstration

One of the newest and largest organizations at Hartford High is the Jr.-Sr. High Science Club. It has over 100 active members and meets once during each month. The meeting includes an informal program which varies from "after-dinner science" stunts and a student's explanation of the theory of fourth dimension, to an actual demonstration of hypnosis by Mr. Bill Smith. As their project, the Science Club members raised the funds and purchased a 250 power telescope.

The junior high members held separate meetings after school and generally were introduced to science. The young science enthusiasts contributed candy sale earnings to help purchase the telescope. The combined clubs are sponsored by Mr. Ray Saxman and Mr. Thomas Key.

Fascinated Senior High Science Club members quietly watch Carrie Atkins to see if Mr. Smith's hypnotic trance will work.

"I may look busy but I'm only confused" and "Thimk" advised signs hung on the newly-painted Inkspot room walls.

Re-organizing and painting the room was the first step the junior journalists made as they took over the helm of the second semester Inkspot.

Putting its "nose for news" into practice the new staff was soon busy making dummys, taking and cropping pictures, planning pages, and copy reading.

Saturday mornings the reporters awakened early and headed for Fairmount to help Mr. Allen Terhune, their printer, proof read and adjust the lay-out.

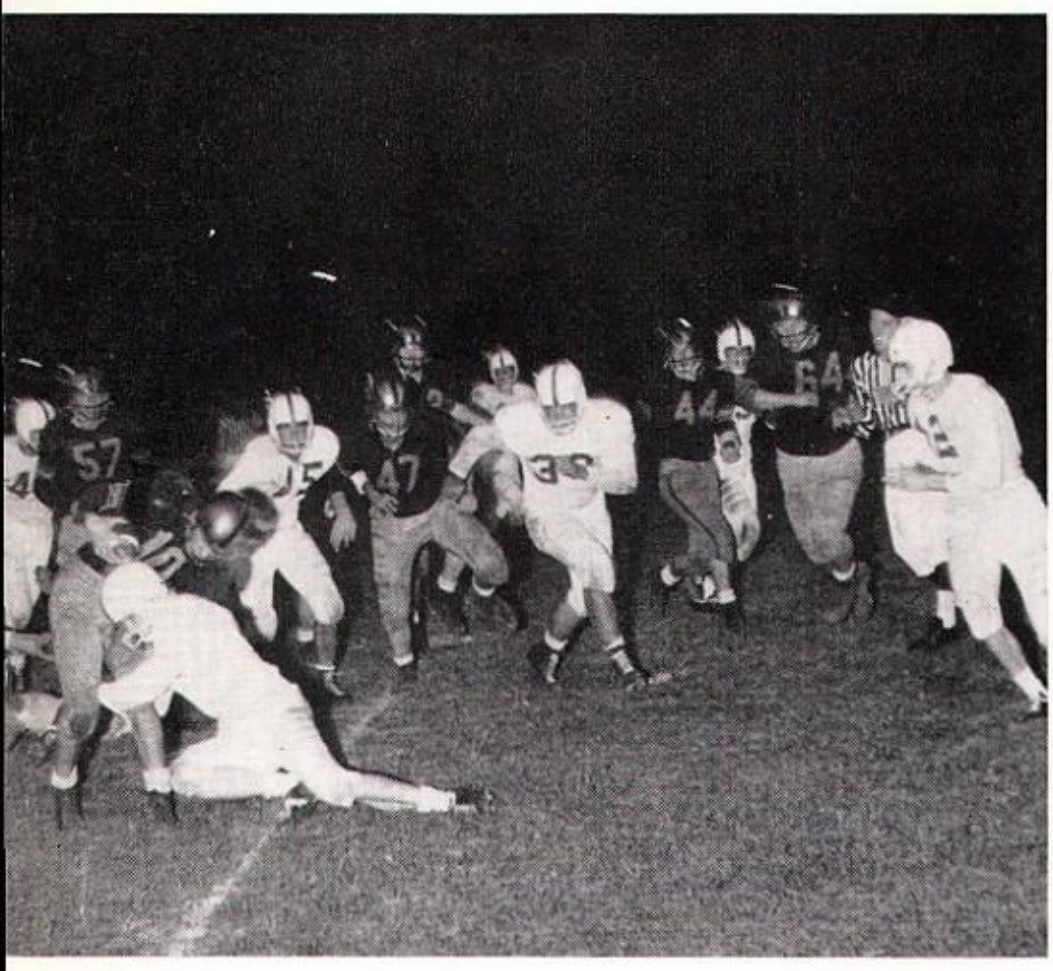
Airedale gridsters blast Bluffton in opener



Terry Smith is tackled after an Airedale gain against Royerton as both teams surge for the pile-up.

Starting the season off with a win over Wells County rival, Bluffton, John Carbone's gridders compiled a four win-five loss record.

After a four game losing slump, the 'Dales got back in the winning column and finished the season with three victories against one setback, including a conference win over Alexandria.

Jerry Winger and Bill Eppard led the season's individual scoring with 21 and 18 markers, in that order. Dean Carbone accounted for 17 and Larry Knox picked up 13 points.

Other scorers were Don Sones, Dick Goodnight, Dave Wagner, and Bill Crites with 12 points apiece; and Bob Fuller, Terry Smith, and Bob Bridge went over once each. Those playing in the line gave admirable support to the H.C.H.S. scorers.

Hold that line! Sones and Frank smear Alexandria.

Although the Black and Gold won only one of five C. I. A. C. contests, four team members were honored by being on the All-Conference squad.

Bob Fuller, 'Dale halfback, rated third choice for the player of the year by the judges, sportswriters of the C.I.A.C. Jerry Winger, Airedale end, was chosen on the third All-Conference team, and teammates Ralph Williams, center, and Don Sones and Bob Fuller, halfbacks, were given honorable mentions.

Elected by fellow gridsters as honorary 'Dale captain was Larry Knox, senior end.

"H" Club presents senior jackets to athletes

Serving the upperclass athletes with an honorary membership was the "H" Club, which set its qualifications in the field of excellent play and good sportsmanship.

Under the guidance of Mr. Weeks and Mr. Carbone, the club sponsored the annual Has Been-Will Be basketball game at the conclusion of the '59 season.

This year the club presented fifteen seniors with their black and gold jackets for varsity participation.

SPECIAL

Mr. Claude Weeks, the "winningest" coach in H.C.H.S. history, announced his resignation as head basketball coach. Mr. Weeks will remain as Athletic Purchasing Director.

During his tenure as coach, Mr. Weeks has amassed an enviable record in conference and state circles. Fans, students, faculty, and players wish him the best of luck in his new position and thank him for his patience, skill, and devotion to the Airedales while mentor.

Mile-relay members, Jim Bratton, Dave Jones, Bill Crites and Bill Eppard display pins awarded them after breaking the school track record.

Jones breaks school 440 record with :51.9

Highlighting the 1958 season was the smashing of two records by John Carbone's cindermen. Breaking the record for the 440-yard dash was Dave Jones, who covered the distance in :51.9. Jones was also a member of the mile relay team which set a new track and school record of 3:43.9. Jim Bratton, Bill Eppard, and Bill Crites were the other three trackmen who figured in the record-breaking run.

In both the C.I.A.C. and the sectional meets, Jones picked up first-place honors in the 440-yard dash. Third place in both contests was captured by the mile relay team.

The only win of the season for the thinlies was over Yorktown, 65½-43½. A 54½-54½ toss-up was the result of the 'Dale-Montpelier clash.

Dual meet defeats were inflicted by Dunkirk, 57-52; Portland 68-41; and Elwood, 82-27. In a triangular meet with Huntington, Peru, and the Airedales, the score was 93½, 38½, and 19, respectively.

Bill Crites hands off to Bill Eppard during the Tri-meet mile relay.

School Life

H.C.H.S. greets first

In the fall, students again entered the "Halls of Ivy." Tanned by the sun and spoiled by carefree summer days, they settled down once again to the old routine. But for three students, it wasn't old at all. This year for the first time Hartford City High enrolled three foreign exchange students from Germany.

For the Dramatics Club, the beginning of school heralded a new season and it's members began preparing immediately for their play, "Nine Girls". Y-Teen initiates almost frightened the Auburn football team off the field when they appeared in their required garb.

Football coaches Kenny Dorton and John Carbone gleefully accept the helmet of cigars from the squad.

The cast for "Nine Girls" takes time out for refreshments.

Aren't they cute? Embarassed sophs are initiated into Y-Teens.

exchange students

Along with the German students, H. C. H. S. welcomed back its prodigal son in the form of Jim Lurtey, fresh from a year of exchange teaching in Derby, England. Mr. Lurtey, with the true continental flair returned with a small souvenir—a Fiat.

Following the annual Fall Festival, summer's glow quickly fading, the school routine began in earnest.

Every second and third hour, students tried to study and not be distracted by the pleasant sounds of music issuing from the band room.

Football fans began bundling up more and more as the season advanced. And soon the question in everyone's mind was "how soon is it going to snow?"

Students gather around the trophy case to retrieve lost articles.

Mr. Lurtey proudly admires his Fiat.

Juniors present

Members of the Junior Class play present "The Curious Savage" on opening night.

Ugh! What you find during locker clean-out!

Practice for the Junior Class play, "Curious Savage" began in late October. Tickets were sold, the stage was set, and on December 9 and 10, it was presented.

Township students learned that neither "Snow nor wind nor sleet (nor European Flu!)" could keep the trusty bus drivers from their daily rounds.

Seventh graders arrived, eager and wide-eyed to the high school. But soon the novelty of changing classes ringing bells, and over stuffed lockers wore off.

Seniors, wishing they still had the novelty, tarnished or not, began planning for their May graduation and financing their yearbook. A highly successful magazine compaign was staged with the seniors breaking all school records for the amount of money netted.

"Red" passes out magazine subscriptions forms to the seniors.

Trudging along on the snow packed sidewalks, rural students hasten to catch the school buses.

"Curious Savage"; school undergoes repair work

This year there was a sad note in that the beloved "walls of ivy" began to crumble. The second story, on the front of the building, between the Inkspot and Retro rooms, began to tip precariously forward at the close of school last year. The south entrance was closed, and this winter repairwork was begun on the permanent sealing off of this entrance.

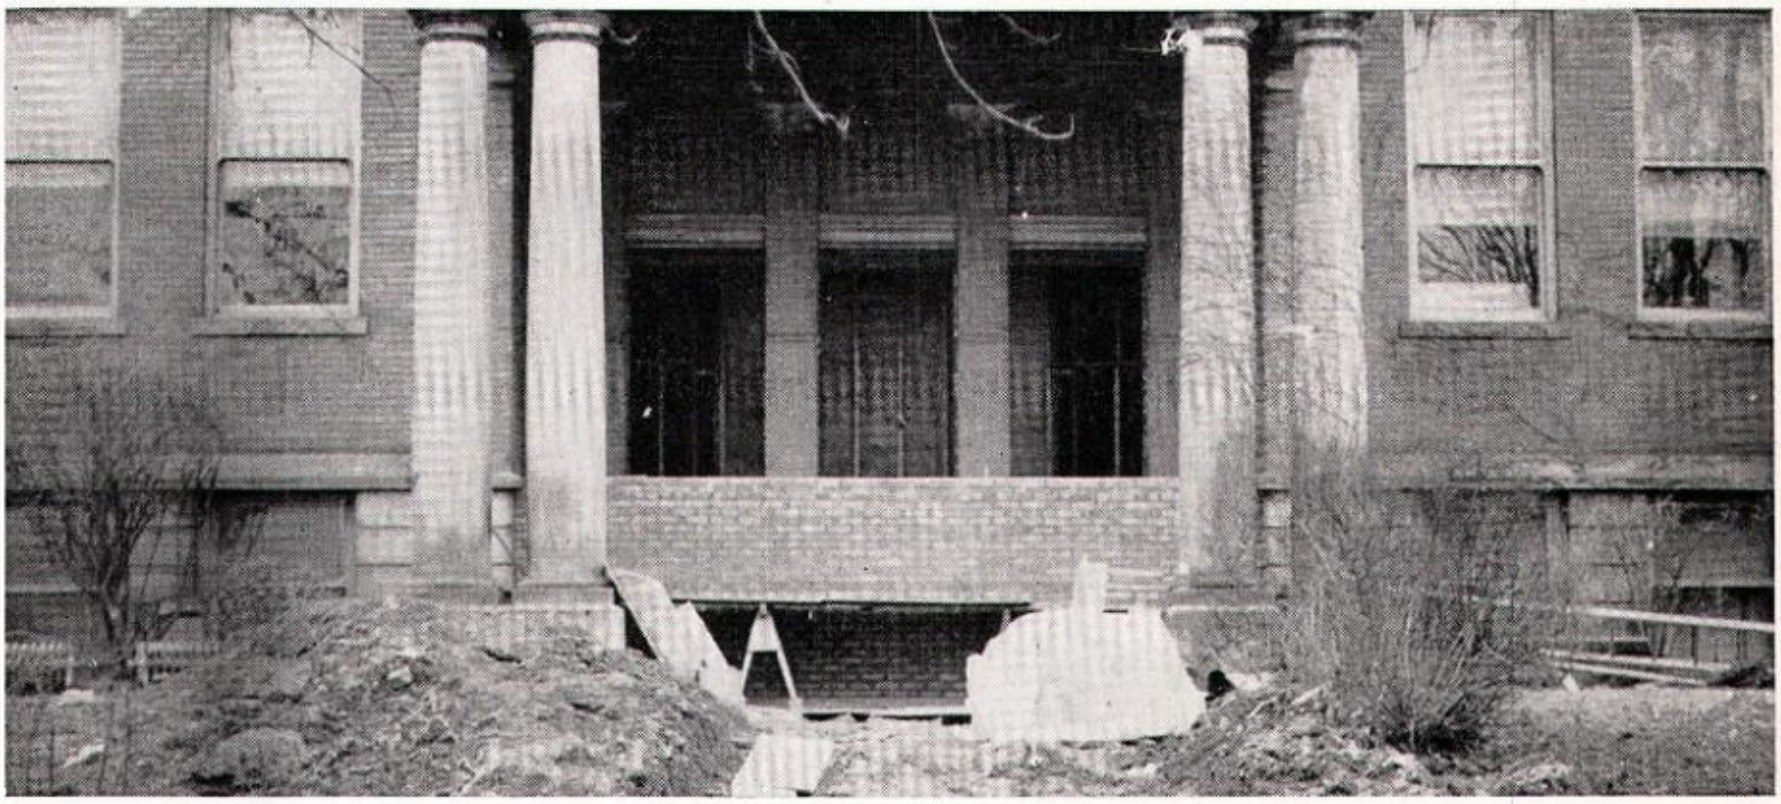
Workmen hammered and banged but classes continued. Students in the physics and chemistry classes found their experiment tubes and other apparatus shaking. Teachers retained their classroom control (only occasionally walking nonchalantly to their windows to watch the repairmen) as their students sat in their seats eagerly anticipating the big fall.

Basketball season began with its usual fervor, students cheering as the Airedales won, mourning when the old black and gold fell before their foes.

Christmas season was ushered in by the hanging of the greens and Christmas parties and dances held by the various actvities and clubs.

Unable to open the movie screen, physics students one-by-one join Mr. Saxman on his desk to lend their advice.

Dust, bricks, mortar come flying as the fifty-five year old entrance was destroyed.



Sectional tears, screams, laughter. The Pep Club is a panorama of emotion as Winger's final point beats Pennville.

Homerooms decorate doors, tourney madness

Mr. Kunkle's activity cuts crepe paper for their prize winning tourney door.

Mr. Fread's "new arrival" is greeted in fine style by the band.

Tourney time rolled around and the student council sponsored an unusual contest. Free cokes were offered to the activity which best decorated it's door in the tourney spirit. Crepe paper streamers, gold and black banners, basketball hoops and large basketballs hung from all the doors in the "Halls of Ivy". Judges for the contest selected Mr. Kunkle's freshman activity as winners.

The Pep Club practiced new yells and an elaborate surprise pep session was held before the sectional.

In the midst of the tourney fever Mr. Fread became the father of a baby boy. His faithful band members hung a banner the length of the band room to congratulate him.

For the first time the yearbook staff presented a Retro Dance with Marilyn Klepfer, senior, elected by the junior high, as Retro Queen.

The Student Council planned and presented a number of interesting programs.

The office, as a preventive measure against the increasing amount of tardiness, moved activity period from first to third hour.

Whoops! Caught in the act by the watchful eye of Mrs. Henderson.

engulfs Hartford

With their awesome regularity report cards appeared every six weeks and students took them home for parents approval (or horrors . . . disapproval).

Most students fell at least once to the temptation of well stocked coke machines in the teachers' room and athletic office.

Students watch as the "Sculptor in Clay" gives his program.

'58 Seniors feted at

Scurrying out of the school at noon are eager students, glad for a glimpse of the spring sun.

A flag that was flown over Washington, D.C. on Memorial Day, 1958, is presented to the school by the D.A.R.

At last spring began to appear and with it seniors began preparation for their play, "Jenny Kissed Me", which was presented in April, and for the first time, was double cast.

The stork again visited the faculty in March, and Mr. Smith was presented with a daughter, Kelly, while Mr. Saxman was eagerly awaiting his "arrival."

Seniors began a flurried preparation for graduation with the ordering of name cards, invitations and the fitting of caps and gowns. College transcripts were filled out as seniors began watching the days fly by.

Fun night was presented with each activity competing for the most popular booth. The crowd was offered the various pastimes of penny-pitching, basketball, and the inevitable kissing booth.

And then that indescribable Jr.-Sr. Prom of '58. On May 9 "Shangri-la" was unveiled in the school gym in all its glory.

Students try the various attractions at Fun Night.

Shangri-la all-night prom

Deanna Coons crossed over the flower-covered bridge to become prom queen and with her escort, Jerry Winger, reigned over the never-to-be forgotten all-night festival.

Beginning the evening students arrived at the gym for the closed session of eating and dancing to the music of Jimmy Steir. At 12 o'clock prom-goers were interviewed and entertained at the Harford Theatre. Then back to the gym for entertainment provided by Edwin L. Baron, well-known hypnotist. Kids gleefully watched as their school mates ate lemons with relish and choked at the "sourness" of oranges.

As dawn broke students ate a hearty breakfast provided by the Kiwanis and trooped to the country club in sports clothes to take part in games and dancing. Then, sleepy-eyed but still excited, they went home and tumbled into bed to dream of their heavenly "Shangri-la".

Prom Queen Deanna Coons smiles radiantly, still holding the roses presented her by the junior class president.

Munching on pretzels and potato chips back at the high school after seeing a movie premier are sleepy prom couples.

"How's that for casting?" Prizes were awarded at the country club for the best cast from the rod and reel.

"Sleepier, and sleepier, and sleepier . . ." An always remembered prom event was the hyptomism of various students.
